About ICADD 2027

Lambda Research Group

Connecting Minds. Advancing Knowledge. Transforming Lives.

Welcome to ICADD 2027

It is our great pleasure to welcome you to the International Conference on Autism and Developmental Disorders — a global platform bringing together leading researchers, clinicians, educators, therapists, policymakers, advocates, families, and professionals from across the world.

Our Purpose

This conference is dedicated to advancing our understanding of autism and developmental disorders through meaningful scientific exchange, innovative research, clinical insights, and collaborative approaches. Together, we aim to explore emerging discoveries, share evidence-based practices, and inspire new pathways toward inclusive and person-centered care.

What to Expect

From groundbreaking research and innovative therapies to education, technology, early intervention, advocacy, and community support, the conference will provide opportunities to discover new perspectives and build meaningful international collaborations.

WELCOME MESSAGE
IRIA HELENA DUARTE

Lambda Research Group

Clinical Cognitive Behavioral Neuroscientist
Scientific Director, International Academy of Neurosciences (IAN)

It is with great enthusiasm and a profound sense of scientific purpose that I invite researchers, clinicians, educators, advocates, and innovators to join us at ICADD 2027.

In a world where neurodiversity, cognitive resilience, and mental health shape the very core of human potential, events like ICADD serve as vital bridges uniting rigorous brain science, compassionate clinical practice, and real-world application. Living autism and neurodivergence closely every day (both through my specialized clinical work and my deep personal commitment), reminds me how crucial it is to move beyond abstract theory. We must foster inclusive, cutting-edge dialogues that translate research into actionable, life-changing support.

ICADD 2027 offers an extraordinary platform to challenge traditional paradigms, share groundbreaking evidence, and cultivate interdisciplinary collaborations that honor every neurotype. Join us in this remarkable journey to share discoveries, expand our collective perspective, and build a more empathetic, inclusive future together.

Thank you once again for your incredible empathy, patience, and partnership. I remain at your complete disposal.

YOU'RE INVITED

Be part of the global conversation. Whether you're presenting, learning, supporting, or advocating—your participation helps shape a future where everyone belongs.

Join us. Connect. Contribute. Create lasting impact.

Best regards,
Iria Helena Duarte
